RE: Rouzer Group Signs on New Manufacturer – K-Line Insulators

We are excited to announce that as of March 1st, 2022, Rouzer Group is your official K-Line Insulators representative. Internationally known, K-line manufactures a variety of transmission and distribution insulators including suspension, dead-end, and line post insulators.

K-Line is known for its excellent engineering and innovative products. The K-CLAMP™, is integrated on the insulator and can be attached directly to the conductor without the use of a separate conductor clamp. These types of innovations, along with their engineering resources and test facilities, help differentiate K-Line from other insulator manufacturers.

K-LINE Insulators are characterized by their superior performance under contaminated conditions. All insulators are injection molded in a continuous one-piece design and exhibit self-cleaning characteristics. The proprietary rubber formula is highly bonded to the fiberglass core strength member with an impervious rod sealing system at the interfaces. These products have a long and proven performance record in severely contaminated environments.
